

SKY HIGH'S SUNDAY SUPPER

THE CHALLENGE:

Food insecurity is a significant problem affecting families with a child diagnosed with cancer. Often leading them to depend on services like UberEats. However, financial constraints prevent many from accessing these options daily, leaving some without a home-cooked meal for weeks or even months.

SKY HIGH'S SOLUTION:

Sky High for kids is partnering with local restaurants to introduce "Sunday Supper" for families at Texas Children's Cancer Center, Main Campus. This initiative aims to provide comforting and nutritious meals, giving hospitalized families a much-needed respite.

MAKE A DIFFERENCE:

Sign up to cater or sponsor 170 meals on any Sunday of the year for the Cancer Warriors and their families at Texas Children's Cancer Center, Main Campus.

Please note that TCH requires all volunteers delivering the meals inside of the hospital to be bagged to keep the children safe.
